

Information needed about each trip ("Information needed about each site" is separate document)

Note to experienced observers. In the old, pre-automated days, we had to list:

- the number of sites visited
- the number of sites missed
- the total number of sites on the route
- the number of species detected at all sites
- the number of additional species seen between sites
- the total of those 2 species numbers
- AND the number of individual birds.

Now all of these numbers are automatically tallied when you enter the site data and are automatically saved!

The trip data (route, observer name, date) also flows into every site section - you don't have to enter it ever again for this trip.

Name of route:

Observer:

Visit date:

Comments: (About the entire morning of observations. You will be able to add comments for each site as well, but this is your only chance to enter information about the full trip.)
